Burglars Crack Safe At Madison 7-Up Plant

Drill Second Safe But Can't Open It; Houses Entered, Cars Stolen

Burglars broke into the offices of the Seven-Up Bottling Co. at 204 State street, Madison, during the weekend, by removing a glass from a rooftop skylight, and pried open a heavy safe, escaping with an undetermined amount of cash.

A tear gas device in the safe was discharged when it was opened, but the police said burglars turned on the air conditioning units in the main office so they could continue their work, according to Madison police.

William Harris, operator of the bottling plant, told officers another safe was drilled and its combination removed, but it was not opened. It contained petty cash not exceeding $100, he said.

After removing the skylight glass, the burglars apparently climbed to the floor on a stack of boxes, then climbed a ladder to the roofline and placed it up to the skylight. Police said they apparently left the building by that route.

The safe from which the money was taken, and broken police said. Then the safe doors were pried open and partially broken off the safe, hanging on one hinge. Harris said the safe contained thousands of dollars in prior to the break-in by driving salesmen, each of which was tagged and contained a receipt.

The burglars took the money bags into the bottling plant and dumped them into several bags on the floor, replacing it in several bags and leaving the tags and checks behind.

All of the desk drawers in the main office were pried open and nothing was taken from them, police reported.

$125 Burglary

Burglars stole $125 in cash and a radio at the home of Palo Warren, 219 Warren avenue, he reported at 8:15 p.m. Sunday. The residence house was ransacked. Entry was gained Arthur L. Laur, 68, of 2645 Benton street, a resident of Granite City for 38 years and former Granite City park commissioner, died at 8:30 p.m. Thursday in Normandy Osteopathic Hospital, St. Louis.

Death was attributed to a heart ailment for which he had been under treatment. He had been ill for the past three years and had been a patient in the hospital on Friday prior to his death.

Mr. Laur was born in Jeffersonville, Ill., and moved to Granite City in 1928. He was co-founder approximately 30 years ago of the Mercantile Mortgage Co., of which he was vice-president. He retired in April 1965.

Mr. Laur was chairman for the United Fund and also served on the YMCA board.

Noting that the police ordinance had been amended twice before to provide for additional men within the past five years, Trustee Dr. Dean Rochester suggested an amendment increase the force to 15 patrolmen. Fry and Jarrett was instead of a marshal and 11 men as proposed.

"Revising the figure to 15 patrolmen should take care of our needs for some time to come," Mr. Rochester said, adding that the board had no need to fill all 15 positions at present.

In objecting, Kreher, a member of the board, said you give him (Village Police Chief Melvin) Fry and Jarrett was instead of a marshal and 11 men as proposed.

Another legal opinion was sought Friday night by Alderman Fry, who questioned the procedure by Johnson in trying to cancel a public hearing to discuss the proposed first reading of the amendment.

County Bar Seeks Court Changes, Critical of Monroe

The Madison County Bar Association is attempting to revise a system of setting civil suits established in August by Circuit Judge James O. Monroe, and was unable to get a hearing.

At a meeting last week, the Bar approved a critical report by its judiciary committee headed by Louis Callin of Granite City to meet with the judge to obtain the changes. During the meeting, a proposal was discussed to remove Judge Monroe as circuit judge. A meeting has yet to be scheduled.

The lawyers feel that the judge had not been responsive to their needs.

Monroe's system involves arbitrary setting of some old civil cases in connection with current cases without following the normal order in which cases were filed.

Callin said several lawyers, whose cases were filed two years ago, have to wait longer to get a trial because an attorney who filed the case eight or nine months ago may have preference.

Some lawyers are complaining about Monroe's administration as chief judge, primarily on the system of civil trial settings which they say is confusing.

Defense members also have complained of Monroe's handling of the criminal docket and motion settings, contending that an excessive amount of time is spent in the process. An assistant state's attorney last week criticized the judge for being too lenient in sentencing law violators in felonies.

450 Attend Schools' Lunch 'Boss' Program

Approximately 450 members and guests attended the annual "Bosses' Night" program of the Madison County School Lunch Association held Thursday at the Edwardsville senior high school. Included in the group were more than 30 members from the Granite City school district.

The second year of the meeting of the 1967-68 school year also served to mark the 21st anniversary of the Illinois school lunch program. Mrs. Alma Irvin of Roxana was succeeded by Mrs. Alma Irvin of Granite City as association chairwoman of the business session.

Joseph Lucco, Edwardsville superintendent of schools, master of ceremonies, and members were welcomed by A. Gordon Dodds, superintendent of the Edwardsville school district, Rev. C. C. Clegg, pastor of Edens Union Church of Christ, gave the invocation.

Distinguished guests introduced included Ray Suddarth, state director of the School Lunch Comes of Age, Mrs. Vernice Wortham of Granite City, state lunch program field representative, and Wilbur L. Trimble, Madison supervisor of schools.

Featured speaker was Ralph M. Sweeny of San Francisco, California, general sales manager of the National Plastic Corp., who spoke on "School Lunch Comes of Age." He compared the progress made in school lunch programs with that which started with such inconveniences as lack of space, few supplies and little equipment to present-day modern facilities incorporated into school buildings.

Pointed out that purchasing policies by school districts have entirely changed from "buying at the corner grocery store" placing large-scale orders through wholesale warehouses.

A memorandum was conducted for Director L. W. Vaethaften, director of the Granite City school lunch program and an active member of the county association.

During the dinner hour, entertainment was provided by the Edwardsville high school Barber Quartet and two vocal soloists.

Mrs. Hurley announced the association's winter meeting will be held at Wood River senior high school on Tuesday, Jan. 23.

Morris New President

Specialized Services Hope for Expansion

Increased awareness and sources within the community is essential in order to expand training programs available through the Quad-Cities Specialized Services Center, 2007 Madison Avenue, a greater number of potential students, Milton M. Morris stressed last week.

Morris, a long-time Vilas resident and owner of Vilas Manufacturing Co., Inc., was elected president of the center's Advisory Council and Steering Committee at a luncheon meeting Thursday in the Rose Bowl.

Named to serve with Morris on the board were: E. L. Stone, manager of the local A&P market. With their election to the local council, both men also joined the corporation's governing board of directors.

The new executive succeeds in office, Chris Kacaloff, president of the Quad-Cities Advisory Council and first president for the past year.

Award for Kacaloff

The later was honored during the meeting with presentation of a Certificate of Appreciation by Mrs. Eve Mendelson of Alton presents' appreciation to Chris Kacaloff, retiring president of the Quad-Cities Center's advisory council.

The citation awarded Kacaloff in part, "...In recognition of sincere appreciation of the trainees, staff and board of directors for outstanding service to the program of education and placement and contribution to its establishment and growth."

Eighteen board members and their guests, Joseph F. Budde, Specialized Services executive director, Mrs. Lois Homan of Florissant, Mo., assistant executive director, and Mrs. Mendelson were present for the luncheon.

"We definitely need additional help from our community to run our training programs and increase the number of trainees we can handle," Morris said. "Approximately 200 potential trainees from the Quad-City area alone have applied for apprenticeship and some have been placed in regular commercial jobs with us, but cannot be accommodated in the program at the present time," he explained.

Hundreds of Prospects

"Several hundred other prospective employees and trainees to exist whom we haven't yet reached. We plan to incorporate them in the program as soon as our present work contracts, training and facilities permit," Kacaloff said.

Reviewing events of the past year, Kacaloff said the center, containing 5500-square-feet of space, was leased from National Supply in November 1966, with the lessor permitting the center to occupy the building rent-free for a three-month period.

Thirty-two trainees officially began training in January 1967 after first completing an exhaustive evaluation study which

U. S. Bond, Freedom Share Plan Pushed

The Treasury Department is emphasizing the "bond-a-month" method of purchasing U. S. Savings Bonds, according to Henry D. Karandjeff, Granite City banker and volunteer bond chairman for Madison county.

"Most persons are familiar with the purchase plan," he said. "But if you are self-employed or otherwise unable to buy the bonds and shares where you work, they are available at many banks, with the transaction being a bargain to the checking account or the purchase plan each month."

Many persons are not familiar with the new "Series E" bonds, "Freedom Shares," Karandjeff said. "Freedom Shares a bonus opportunity offered to regular purchasers of savings bonds. They are savings notes, paying a higher rate of interest 4.7% which matures in 4 years."

"They are redeemable after one year. Freedom Shares are available only in combination with savings bonds, on a regular monthly purchase plan."

Late Scoring Lifts Kahoks to 25-7 Win in Battle of Defense

The Granite City high school Fighting Warriors fought hard but lost to Collingsville 25-7 Friday night before an estimated crowd of 1500 fans at the Granite City Field as both teams played their Southwestern Conference schedules. It was a close game, 12-7, until the fourth quarter.

"I think that the young Warriors have greatly improved since we last played," coach Jim Morrison commented. "We have some fine boys in the younger ranks and these boys will soon be playing on the varsity squad. We have a youth program that is beginning to operate in the lower levels, and the big goal left is to get the varsity squad in better playing spirit."

In the first half the spirit shown Friday and GCHS's unwillingness to give up, Morrison added that "when Collingsville opened the first quarter with two touchdowns, that was enough to take the heart out of most teams. Our boys never quit in there fighting. Having lost the week before 27-0, and faced with the same situation the next game, they gave it all they had to hold them to that score until the last minutes of the game."

GCHS gained nine first downs to Collingsville's ten and, with five of the ten gained, passed 69 yards to the visitors' 69 on eleven of 12 attempts. The Kahoks led the Warriors in ground yardage, 177 to 96.

It was a tight defensive game, with each team scoring one touchdown in less than five minutes in the last period and threatened to score another in the last seconds of the game.

Warriors Threaten Often

Granite City was continually about to cross the goal line of Collingsville but was too weak to penetrate a powerful Kahok defensive line in all but one instance.

Other than the Warriors' youth importunities, Morrison said, "We were outmatched man for man and it wasn't an easy task getting the ball as far as we did. The kids didn't seem to do well on the line to open up holes for the runners."

A pass from Quarterback Dave Snelson to End Jim McCarty for a 20-yard gain in the second quarter highlighted the local offense. The extra point kick by Roger Belshe was good. Ron Laws and McCarty had carried the ball during a drive that included two first downs.

Page 6 Granite City PRESS-RECORD Mon., Oct. 2, 1957

"Player of the week" recognition went to McCarty, who scored three touch downs for 35 yards during the game, and Dennis Carver, who in his first starting assignment was credited with effective play as a guard both on defense and on offense.

Mike Polkach caught at 44 yards and Ralph Burnett a seven-yard aerial, and Snelson had four of five pass completions. Ball carriers included Belshe, 34 yards, and plays made in records in several categories. Daves Anderson 18 yards in six tries.

Collingsville struck fast and hard to score 12 points in the first six minutes of the game.

Fumble Leads to Touchdown

The Kahoks had punted after receiving the opening kickoff, but GCHS immediately fumbled and Arnold Pugues recovered on the Granite City 28. After runs by Irvin Norton and a defensive interference call on a punt from Mike Fletcher, had Bill Thomas, the same passing combination clicked for a 10-yard TD.

A 17-yard touchdown run by Dennis Merceau around right end put the score 12-0 after a fumble had ended a Warrior march.

Runs by Anderson and Pugues helped GCHS advance early in the second quarter. Collingsville then was held and punted to the Warrior 45 to set up the lone Granite City scoring drive.

75-Yard GCHS Drive

GCHS began the third quarter with five consecutive first downs that brought the ball 75 yards to the enemy's two-yard-line. Belshe and Dave Snelson had taken turns passing, with Anderson and sophomore Steve Gans handling much of the running. A run on fourth down failed to dent the goal line, enabling the Kahoks to take over.

Granite City, later, got possession on the Kahok 26 after a punt runback, but John Pepper intercepted a pass on the 23.

Warrior Bob James recovered a fumble on the Collinsville 28 and his team moved within a foot of TD territory early in the fourth quarter before again running out of steam.

Long Run by Punter

Four down for Collingsville, the ball was centered back to Ron Belshe, who had to run the ball out of the end zone rather than punting. But it turned out to be a good break for the Kahoks when he eluded charging tacklers and ran 50 yards to set up a 15-yard TD run by Merceau, boosting the score to 18-7.

"Less than a minute later, Belshe was hit while passing and forced him into a run in his forward motion. Jim LaFrank, a 183-pound lineman, scooped up the ball and ran 40 yards for the final touchdown.

GCHS again was deep in its own territory but had to make an interception, with Collingsville driving off the five-yard-line before time ran out.

It may be out of the GCHS game plan to take the ball to the Kahok 26 and earlier raised our game.

Trojans Continue Winning Ways--Take First MW Tilt From Highland

The Madison football Trojans remained undefeated Friday night, winning their third straight in the opening their Midwest Conference series with a 20-15 victory over Highland on the Bulldogs' field.

Coach Harlan Schiebel picked Titus Shipp to earn the honors as number one player of the week. Number two player of the week, Frank Shipp, tallied 102 rushing yards, three kick-offs for a total of 111 yards, made 10 tackles and scored two touchdowns. "He was almost a one man show," he said. "He did all done it without the fine blocking of his teammates," Schiebel said.

"A Team Victory."

"The boys played as a team, and it was a team victory. We knew it was not going to be a bed of roses, because the Bulldogs were our first big challenge of the year. The Trojans were penalized for roughing the kicker, putting the Bulldogs inches away from a first down.

Quarterback Terry Greenfield handed off to Gentry, who went off tackle and broke open for the touchdown run.

80-Yard TD Run

The Trojans were not behind long.

The ball left from the Bulldogs was deep in the Madison territory, but with excellent blocking by his teammates, Shipp produced a six-point, 80-yard return. Harold James kicked the gamewinner early in the second quarter.

For the rest of the quarter

there was no scoring, but Madison managed to move the ball

as close as the Highland six-yard line to try a field goal.

James' kick was blocked by

Schmidt and the quarter ended

7-7. In the second quarter, neither team could score successfully, the opposing defense and Madison again tried to kick

a field goal from 35 yards out.

The ball fell short and the score remained 7-7 at the end of the half.

Madison broke the tie in the third quarter as Shipp carried the ball over for a four-yard touchdown. The extra point attempt was wide.

The game play started on Madison's own 33-yard line.

Terry Brake carried the ball twice for 15 yards. Shipp ran for 20 yards. Williams and Brake went for three, and Shipp then carried for ten yards in three successive tries.

At the end of the third quarter, Madison led 13-7.

Receiving the ball from the Highland 23-yard line, A 15-yard penalty for clipping moved the ball back to the 38-yard line.

In the next play, Scott passed to Joe Collins, who made it for 13 yards. Then Shipp carried to the ten yard line setting up the touchdown pass to Joe Collins.

James kicked the extra points and the carry by Gentry.

The score with less than five minutes left was Madison 13,

Highland 12.

The Trojans received the kickoff on their own twenty-

and drive down to our six yard

line. We were having trouble

with that boy, and we knew that he wouldn't give them the touchdown.

"On the following play Gentry was on our six yard line when he was hit hard and fumbled.

Willie Ackers was there to recover for him and was the winning play of the night."

"It was now our ball on our own six with two minutes left to play. We tried having Shipp and Scott carry the ball, but they moved it to the seven in three plays.

"I called time out, and brought Scott to the sidelines for a chat.

"I told him that instead of passing the ball, to drop to one

Gentry continued to sparkle

and drive down to our six yard

line. We were having trouble

with that boy, and we knew

that he wouldn't give them the

touchdown.

"It worked, and we then were far away with only 50 sec-

"In the final minute of the game Madison made 12 first downs:

Highland, six. Madison ran up a net yardage of 285 yards to Highland's 228. Madison completed 5 of eight passes and Highland completed 3 of 7.

There were no interceptions.

Madison lost 86 yards on penalities, and Highland lost 35.

Madison did not fumble, but the Highland fumbled twice with the Trojans recovering one.

Bow Hunters for Deer Cannot Carry Guns

A deer hunter using a bow is is violating the law if he also carries a firearm on his trip into the field after whitetails according to William J. Lough, director of the Illinois State Department of Conservation. Lodge said such hunters sometimes pack a sidearm on their hunting expeditions and are unaware of the strictures of the law.

The bow season for deer is divided into two periods, the first ending on Nov. 6. The second period opens Nov. 16 and ends Dec. 31.

The entire state is open to deer hunting, but archers must obtain permission from the landowner on which they hunt or private property: A $5 bow hunting permit is necessary unless the archer is the owner of the land he is hunting on. In that case a free permit is issued. All hunters must wear their signed permit upon their backs while in the field within 48 hours.

Coolidge junior high school won its second game in two outings and its initial confer-as it won 25-13 at the Edwards-

Coach Concoff said Coolidge was unable to maintain as much ball control as in its pre-called back because of clipping and illegal backfield procedure.

This week we'll strive to better our ball handling. The not turn, he related.

Coolidge and eight plays later on a quarterback sneak by the 10-yard line for the final touch-

The company maintains that the strike cost employees from other states, and the nature of the union charges, makes the suit applicable to federal court jurisdiction.

Supervisor Seminar
Enrollment Extended

Persons wanting to enroll in a seminar for office supervisors will be interested in the Southwestern campus of Southern Illinois University have a few additional days in which to do so, a spokesman said today.

Arnold G. Franke, director of the School of Business Services, which is sponsoring the program in cooperation with SIU-SW's business education faculty, said the cutoff date has been extended to Oct. 12.

The previous deadline for this second annual seminar was last week.

With the program itself scheduled Oct. 18 and 19, Franke announced the new registration deadline so that individuals wishing to attend would have a more reasonable time in which to register.

The seminar will cover self evaluation, communication skills, data processing, resource uses, employee appraisal and employee motivation. Further information can be obtained by calling Franke at 692-3799.

"Out of around 1300 members, I think that is cutting the attendance down," Warfield said.

A company official, however, said more than 3000 persons attended the affair and "they came so thick and fast that we lost count." He said most students were of high school students brought to the plant from the vocational school.

"They had been wanting to come to our plant ever since we were having open houses," he said. "It was the time for it. We called the school and they sent the youngsters over," the spokesman said.

"The company really has no desire to get into any argument over who was or was not present at the open house.

We had all the people we wanted here," he said. "The distribution handles at the plant gates about a week before the open house program was scheduled, urging members of the union not to attend.

"We first sent a letter to the company to this effect and asked that if it was posted on the bulletin board," Warfield said.

"When they failed to do so, we distributed the handbill at the gate," he said. Warfield also claimed that the plant manager, a number of small prizes was awarded throughout the program "but this year when they found out we weren't going to take part, they got the main prize to pop up interest."

Union Seeks Injunction

Differences between the union and the company grew out of recent changes in the union that the company has been violating terms of the current three-year contract which expires Dec. 31. The union requested the company begin negotiations for a new contract on Sept. 1, but the company refused to do so. Company representatives have declined to discuss Warfield's concerns.

The union recently filed in circuit proceedings in Edwardsville asking the court to order the company to abide by terms of the contract.

Warfield said Friday that the union intends to abide by its present contract through the Dec. 31 expiration date.

"I can't say what will happen after that," he said.

Union Disclaims Success of Event

The open house conducted Wednesday by the A.O. Smith Corp. plant for employees and members of their families "was not near the success they claim it was," Francis William Warfield, president of Boilermakers Local 975, said Thursday afternoon.

A plant spokesman said last week that attendance at the Wednesday affair was "not as great as expected." In view of efforts by union officials to have union members boycott the open house program. The open house affairs are held periodically under company sponsorship.

"If that (the open house) was a successful affair, I am sure it would have to see one that was a flop," Warfield said. The company brought in several hundred of high school students to bolster attendance and said the union plans to discuss this with the plant's board of directors.

Warfield said the union made a thorough check through the day and that a total of 181 union members from all three plant shifts attended the open house.

Clerks, Retailers Talks Continue

Another meeting is scheduled for tomorrow in contract negotiations involving Retail Store Employees Local 435 and the Associated Retailers. A general meeting of the 250 clerks is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Labor Temple.

The next two contracts for the retail soft goods, sales clerks etc. expire yesterday but is being continued while negotiations are in progress.

Miss Hetty Sheppard, business agent for the union, said the meeting will be held in the same room as the previous meeting with Mauri Rich, representing the retailers. Four negotiating sessions have been held to date.

Pharmacists Question Tax on Prescriptions

Illinois pharmacists will investigate the constitutionality of the increased state tax on prescription drugs, acting on a resolution passed at the 57th convention of the Illinois Pharmaceutical Association held in St. Louis.

Richard S. Stromer, executive director, said the tax was collected by pharmacists, "but physicians can increase their office fee, tell the state Department of Revenue they are giving a discount to patients, or charge and collect another collector who pays the five per cent tax to the state."

"The pharmacist is placed in an extremely poor position because of the result of this practice," he said. The Illinois Medical Society has obtained an injunction to prevent the collection and payment of the tax by physicians on the basis that is unreasonable and illegal.

United Fund Services

2 Welfare Agencies Provide Emergency Relief Aid

Quad-Cityans in distress or despair have two United Fund agencies upon which to lean — Catholic Charities and Protestant Welfare — Mitchell B. Milosnik, drive chairman noted today on the opening day of a $384,000 campaign.

Last year, for example, the Protestant Welfare Agency provided emergency services representing 469 cases. The persons, both families and individuals needing help, were given 432 relief orders for food, rent, utilities, medical expenses, clothing and new equipment.

More than 300 children with their parents and laymen participating in the agency functions to promote the "moral, social and spiritual betterment of the people within the Quad-

City area."

This is accomplished without charge to the persons in need.

Catholic Charities also provides material assistance in emergencies. Families are aided on a non-sectarian basis in solving emotional or financial problems by trained caseworkers.

Child adoption and foster-home placement are offered, and unwed mothers are assisted by the agency. Catholic Charities handled 505 family cases last year. This included 222 unmarried mothers and 18 adoptions.

Both Protestant Welfare and Catholic Charities have many warehouses in their headquarters. Catholic Charities is located at 2012 Delmar avenue and Protestant Welfare at 2053 Edison avenue.

Controversial Comment

Thinking--Painful But Necessary

By EUGENE PATTERSON

Editor, The Atlanta Constitution
Newspaper editorials get a lot of things done. At times, I've wondered what. By now, I think I know.

They get people to think. They may think the editor is an idiot; the Atlanta Constitution, for example, has never held that opinion. In order to arrive at it, however, they must (1) read his unsatisfactory argument, and then (2) justify their own.

This is a painful experience on both counts, which may account for the soreness they exhibit in letters to the editor. But they have had to think about them.

And the longer I live, the more I believe the value of an editorial is not so much to carry the day, to convince everybody, or to comfort the good as convert the evil.

To realize those goals the average editor would have to be a lot smarter than he is. The true and lasting value of good editorials lies not for themselves in talk and to argue, and finally to decide whatever they want to decide. The process of thought may have adjusted their decision some small distance toward the side of what is right, wherever that is.

"I guess a man's job," William Percy's father told him, "is to make the world a better place to live in, so far as he is able—always remembering the results of his labors, and to attend to his own soul."

An editorial is, of itself, no better than the incentive it provides the reader to attend to his own soul. The editor's own editorial opinion itself is accepted secondary to that. The people will find their own way when they think.

The key issue in the South was editorial muddling for many years. The primary contribution of editors like Hodding Carter and Ralph McGill and Lester Chambers lay not so much in their writing, but in their silence, to stop discussing of it, to speak the unspeakable and think the unthinkable, and to realize it was a subject they could not ignore.

This brief period of silence, fear, that brings about the goal of talking and thinking, is the goal an editor shoots for in a frozen situation where minds have ceased to question. The editorial doesn't have to be right. But it does get things done.

It gets the people to think.

Mental Cruelty Now a Basis for Filing of Illinois Divorce Cases

Tri-City and Illinois Bar Association

Now that Illinois has changed its divorce law to permit divorce actions to be brought on grounds of mental cruelty, one question is: what is mental cruelty?

After the Illinois law goes into effect, there will be "extreme and repeated" another question arises over the emphasis and meaning the courts will give these terms.

Interpretations of mental cruelty, in states which have a history of such rulings, vary widely.

Twenty-six states will grant divorces on evidence of mental cruelty or upon such grounds as "indigence" or "incompatibilities."

One very lenient state, Kentucky, will give a wife a divorce if her husband behaves "so unmercifully" as to render her "cruel or inhuman or habitual."

"One of the most important of the other hand, 18 states require evidence to show that cruelty resulted in impaired health of the offended party or could, if continued, have such an effect.

Iowa, for example, requires an actual showing of either impairment or undermining of health.

Some states, like Illinois, require that mental cruelty must be extreme and repeated, although they may use such terms as "inhuman" and "habitual."

The Civil Code of California defines "extreme" mental cruelty as "the wrongful infliction of . . . grievous mental suffering on the other by one party to the marriage."

One California court said:

"Any justifiable conduct upon the part of either of the spouses, which so grievously wounds the feelings of the other as to seriously destroy the peace of mind of the other as to seriously impair the health or is sure to utterly destroy the legitimate ends and objects of matrimony, constitutes extreme cruelty."

In addition to studying the rulings of other states, Illinois courts will re-examine their own rulings in certain maintenance cases where mental cruelty was never allowed.

In indicate, some rulings indicate a rather hard line. In one case, a permanent maintenance suit, the court said:

"1. What is the type of behavior of the offending spouse?

2. What is the apparent or implied intent of the offending spouse?

3. What is the degree of such conduct and the duration?

4. What is the effect on the aggrieved spouse?

5. What is the effect on the home life and children?

6. What are the prospects of reconciliation?

With the adoption of the mental-cruelty amendment by the General Assembly, and approval of the governor, Illinois became the 49th state to allow some form of mental cruelty as a ground for divorce.

South Carolina still requires physical violence as proof of cruelty.

On the other hand, 18 states require evidence to show that cruelty resulted in impaired health of the offended party or could, if continued, have such an effect.

Whales Threatened by Extinction

(American Association for the Advancement of Science)

The writing is on the wall for whales.

Since World War II, whalers have gone about their work with a growing efficiency that threatens the very survival of the whaling industry, to say nothing of the whales themselves.

The great blue whale—the largest animal that ever lived on the earth—is on the verge of immediate extinction, even though it is now protected. Its numbers have dropped from a population estimated to be about 100,000, today, less than 10,000 survive.

The outlook for whaling as a productive enterprise is so dim that the Soviet Union still engage in whaling from ocean-going ships.

Unrealistic international agreements are established, neither conservation nor economic interests will be served, because all animals in question will no longer exist.

100-Million-Year-Old Aunts

Amber is a fossil resin from coniferous trees and has been used from prehistoric times for beads and other ornaments. For the scientist, amber holds a mystery, because ancient insects are sometimes found in amber in animal globules.

Edward Wilson, Frank Carpenter and William Brown of the Museum of Comparative Zoology at Harvard University report a recent find in New Jersey of two amber-preserved ants.

These ants, about 10 million years old, are the oldest known examples of fossil insects.

Until this find, discovered by two mineral collectors in 1966, the origin of social life in the insects was thought to be about 60 million years ago in the Eocene epoch.

In a second, shorter article, it is shown that the social behavior of insects, including link, is evolution between certain non-social wasps and primitive ants.

Electricity and Torpedoes

Photographs of rows of lighted incandescent torpedoes that devastated Toledo, Ohio, give unique evidence of the presence of energetic electrical processes near the tornadoes' destructive funnels.

Eyewitness reports confirm the presence of bizarre electrical displays. It is not known if the pillars were two tornado funnels illuminated from the inside by electrical discharges or if, as some believe, "certain" electrical discharges.

Studies of the magnitude and current flow in tornades indicate that the schools, where the responsibility for administering the schools has been entrusted to the state government, is an important by-product of tornade activity or whether it is a source of energy that establishes or maintains tornade circulation.

6% Larger United Fund Gifts
Essential—Still a Bargain

With 6% more last year needed in the United Fund drive opening tonight, the task of meeting the $384,000 goal may appear formidable. But it will be easily achieved if Quad-Cityans become convinced of the bargain they are getting.

In view of the way payroll and equipment costs are rising in many fields, it is remarkable that United Fund agencies have been able to hold the line on spending as much as they have.

Extravagance has been avoided in actual and proposed spending by all participating agencies, with gradual budget increases approved only after the most thorough substantiation.

That some increases have occurred through the years is not only understandable but commendable. The alternative would have been deterioration of vital services, what with the triple impact of inflation, population growth and necessary modernization of methods and programs.

As in the past, administrative costs are believed to be minimum; in fact, they are almost non-existent. This is a refreshing contrast to some national campaigns in which the fund raisers manage to use up most of what is contributed before it is used for the stated purpose.

In the Tri-Cities United Fund, nobody "profits" but everybody benefits. The recipients, contributors and drive workers are all members of the same community—local residents and employees, and virtually every Quad-Cityan has put out two of those two "hats."

From a dollar and cents standpoint, gifts of a generous number of dollars to the local United Fund make sense.

To provide the amount needed this fall for 1968 operation of UF agencies, each dollar of Quad-Cityans' fair share contributions should be accompanied by an extra six cents.

With the adoption of the mental-cruelty amendment by the General Assembly, and approval of the governor, Illinois became the 49th state to allow some form of mental cruelty as a ground for divorce.

It is shown that at one time, at least, a European education of the kind we have today was not available. Instead of looking at the clock on his wall and knowing exactly what was being studied in school by every student in his school, he was told to learn in his home.

A national educational authority dictated every course, every textbook, every minute of the school day.

We do not really have a public educational system in the United States. We have 23,500 of them, operated by local boards of education.

Private and parochial schools also have a greater measure of autonomy in shaping their educational practices.

In consequence, our schools differ widely on such matters as selected reading sequence of children, teacher training, and level of performance.

A high school student whose family moves from New England to the Southwest may find that the school of his choice in the city of French because his new school restricts him to Latin or Spanish.

The fifth-grade from Atlanta, Ga., may be far ahead of the fifth-grade in Galena, Ill., in mathematics and far behind a fifth-grade from Tacoma, Wash., in natural science.

Both the good and bad aspects of this diversity flow from the fact that schools are kept close to the people, to the local community, rather than to the state government, which is an important by-product of tornade activity or whether it is a source of energy that establishes or maintains tornade circulation.

Eye-witness reports confirm the presence of bizarre electrical displays. It is not known if the pillars were two tornade funnels illuminated from the inside by electrical discharges or if, as some believe, "certain" electrical discharges.

Mark Your Calendar for Nov. 25

The Nov. 25 performance of the hit Broadway musical show "Grazing in the Grass" largely raised. It will be the first local production by the Masquerade, a Collinsville-based dramatics group that includes many Quad-Cityans in its membership.

The event not only will be enjoyable on its own merits but also will aid a worthy cause; all proceeds will be used for the modernization expansion of St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Educational Progress Report This Week

Because of "continuous progress" instruction is being adopted in more and more schools here and throughout the nation, many parents and others may wish to hear a national authority on the subject when he speaks at a public meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Granite City high school auditorium.

There is special interest in the speaker, Dr. Edward de Bono, director of the New York State University, because of his familiarity with the curriculum of local schools, having spent extensive time in the Granite City district as part of an Illinois state developmental project.

Glue Sniffing Serious Threat to Health

As brought out in a Press-Record news article, "sniffing" of model airplane glue is becoming more prevalent among Quad-City youths but is far from a prank; it can cause permanent damage to the body and brain. There is also a risk of death in traffic due to loss of vision while driving or walking, or the possibility of narcotics addiction.

"Sniffing" is not only illegal but a childishly ineffective way of "proving" one's maturity. Because of its lasting harm, it cannot be merely outlawed; it must be avoided.

Too Soon to Revive Junior College Plan

Indications that the junior college proposal may be revived here soon are disturbing because the direction in which East St. Louis will head is not yet clear. The idea has already been considered in that city, but it may be some time before a decision is made on whether to establish a two-year center there.

One of the uncertainties of the local junior college proposal would depend largely on what is involved in the bill introduced in the Illinois legislature.

I want to emphasize the importance of this country involve themselves, more than ever before, in establishing a society in which every individual has the opportunity to realize his or her full potential.

With 7.5 million Americans now jobless, the needs of disadvantaged must be met on a highly-personalized basis.

The large body of unemployed and poor persons in America cannot be viewed as a mass of statistics.

These citizens represent individual cases that must be dealt with on a personal rather than mass basis.

Women have unique talents that can be utilized to help establish numerous school concerts and established a music reading clinic for teachers.

Quad-Cityans are so musically inclined that they can help exporting some of their skill and zest for music. Junior high musicians and here made two successful tours of Mexico, and now Senior Navy Musicians Robert Flader has received a high award from the government of Guam; while a band conducted by him has inaugurated numerous school concerts and established a music reading clinic for teachers.

Perhaps the most basic reason for our success in developing unity without succumbing to uniformity is the American public school, can be used to advantage for many of us.

Free education was not easily won.

In 1647 the Puritan fathers in Massachusetts passed two unprecedent laws:

1. Each town of 50 or more houses must appoint a teacher of reading and writing, and must provide wages for the teacher.

2. Each town of 100 or more houses must provide a grammar school (roughly corresponding to our high school) to prepare students for university studies.

But it was more than 100 years before the colonists really began to comply with these laws.

In general, the educational institutions of the New World resembled those of the Old in that they perpetuated distinctions of social and economic class.

Their feeling that the loftier forms of learning ought to be restricted to the children of the fortunate was school in 1870 in Governor Bertrand of Virginia: "I thank God there should have known it was illegal to conceal a weapon in the car. But who knows every person do."

He is charged with unlawful use of a weapon and has suffered as a result of this incident. Maybe this explanation will help his future standing in his community.
